BE SURE TO VOTE

All elections are momentous, for they are opportunities for us to exercise our rights as free citizens of a democratic nation, but some are even more important because the things to be voted upon are a threat to our freedom. The election next Tuesday is one that contains a menace to democratic principles. The Pine Cone urges all members of this community to vote next week and outlines below its own position on the five propositions up for consideration:

PROPOSITION NO. 1

NO

This is the so-called Ham & Eggs proposition, embodying one of the most serious threats to the welfare of the people of California in the history of the State. The very basis of this proposition is dishonest and impossible. It would deliver into a few hands dictatorial powers under the guise of pensions for those over fifty years of age.

NO

This is the proposition extending the powers to practise of chiropractors into fields now limited to duly accredited medical doctors. Many chiropractors and medical doctors have united to fight passage of this proposition.

PROPOSITIONS NO. 3 and 4

YES

These propositions are practically identical. They were both signed by the governor to avoid any possible legal tangles in the courts. They are designed to curb the activities of personal property brokers. The better known loan companies are behind this proposition. Those opposed have been labeled "loan sharks." The proposition has the support of business leaders, state officials, ministers and prominent citizens.

PROPOSITION NO. 5

YES

This is the proposition to control oil and gas production in the state. It has the almost unanimous support of the oil industry and is backed by both President Roosevelt and former President Hoover. The officials of the U. S. Navy and other federal and state government heads sponsor the proposition for the protection of national resources.

Hallowe'en Party Given Both Praise And Abuse

Carmel's first organized Hallowe'en, with a big parade, costume contest and street dancing, proved a gay affair for the young, most especially the very young.

Tuesday evening's party, the first staged by the Carmel Business Association, proved its worth in many ways, for, when the merchants had washed down windows and sidewalks on Wednesday morning, it was realized that this as a fairly quiet and undestructive Hallowe'en.

Many were those, however, who complained when ripe tomatoes and eggs flew during part of the Hallowe'en party. Some claimed eggs containing paint were hurled and there was some evidence that this claim had foundation.

On the other hand, on check with police reports, it was learned that except for the restricted downtown area, only a little damage occurred. Police patrols apparently handled the situation well throughout the residential areas.

Heading the police list was the breaking of a window in a Carmelo street home with a large piece of buckshot, apparently hurled with a slingshot. One window on Dolores street in the business section was broken. Very little damage to fences was reported, usually a large item.

All taken into consideration, citizens declared that, aside from the unwelcome eggs and tomatoes, this was a comparatively peaceful Hallowe'en and that the police department handled things well. Even one woman declared:

"I was awful mad about getting rotten egg in my hair. When I talked it over with Mr. Walton (acting police chief), I realized that the kids have got to have some fun and that this year I could have at least stayed out of harm's way simply by not going down town."

A visitor stated she wanted information regarding the way this Hallowe'en party was staged so she could send details to friends in other communities where Hallowe'en is much more of a nightmare than in Carmel.

So, Carmel's Hallowe'en came in for varied reception and—if there hadn't been any eggs or tomatoes—might even have won a gold star.

Prizes were awarded as follows:

Group one, up to seven years of age, Bobby Emile first; Carol Jane Hill, second; Joyce DeAmaral, Carol Byers and Caroline Guaver, third.

Group two, lower elementary grades, Jack Bell first; Wanda Warren second; Louis Daugherty, Susan Walters and Bob Selton, third.

Group three, upper elementary grades, Flora Koepf first; Sonya Koehler, second; Jean Staniford and Edward Nielsen, third.

The following letter was received by The Pine Cone from the Carmel Business Association regarding the Hallowe'en party:

"The Business Association wishes to express through me their sincere appreciation of the publicity given our Hallowe'en party for the children of Carmel.

"We feel that a good beginning has been made toward supplying wholesome entertainment on Hallowe'en for these young people, and that the experience of this year will contribute toward future plans.

"Sincerely yours,

"Shelburn Robison,
"President."

SPEAKER

Louis Adamic, writer, who will speak on the subject, "Let's Be Americans!", before the Carmel Forum next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

Comstock to Build $16,000 Carmelo St. House for L. A. Pair

The first building permit to be issued in Carmel for the month of November was for Hugh W. Comstock to build a $16,000 residence for Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Haskins of Los Angeles.

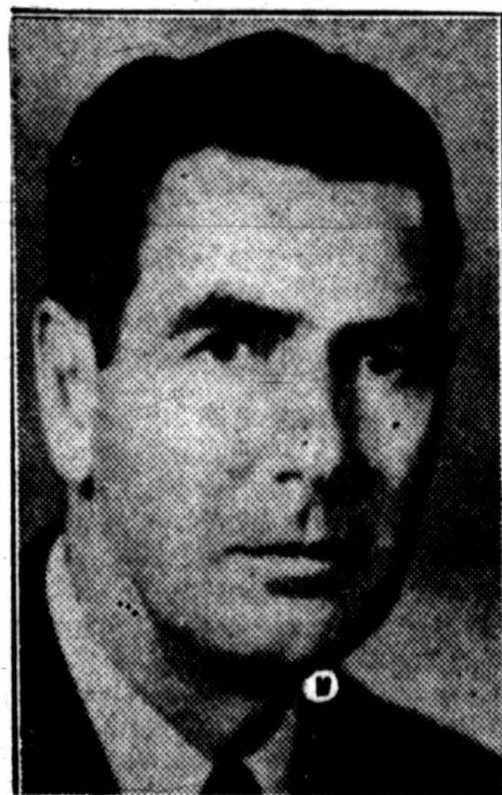

The one-story frame house and garage will be situated on two and a half lots on the west side of Carmelo street between Ninth and Tenth.

The October building total for the incorporated area of Carmel reached a peak for the current year, amounting to $29,715 for 18 permits.

Adolph Teichert Plays Before Music Art Club On Tuesday, Nov. 14

The November meeting of the Musical Art Club will present Adolph Teichert, Carmel pianist and student of Frank Wickman of Carmel Highlands, on the evening of Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Teichert is well known on the peninsula and has been heard several times in recitals at the Wickman studio.

R. J. Gale, of the Sunset school staff, who will read "Family Portrait" at All Saints Church Monday evening.

High School Plans Made Public by Trustee Board

Plans for the Carmel high school to be built on the 22-acre Hatton ranch site opposite the eastern end of Ocean avenue and across the coast highway have taken on visual form in the drawings of Ernest Kump, Jr., young Fresno architect charged with working out building details.

These plans, in the form of front and side facades of typical buildings and the large general layout of school buildings and playing fields on Hatton site, were made public this week by the Carmel unified board following an informal meeting with the architect on Tuesday.

The ground layout presents an efficient use of the natural terrain, avoiding excavation and filling. The general type of building is pleasing to the eye, being a composite type which the architect declares might well be termed "Carmel" style, embodying as it does the easy lines of the California and "Monterey" types with somewhat modern application in the use of windows and walls.

For layout of buildings and grounds see illustration, page 4.

The following prospectus regarding the Carmel high school building plans was released this week by the trustees:

"The buildings have been designed to conform to the natural contours of the hillside and to take the greatest possible advantage of the beauty of the site and its outlook. This planning has the practical advantage of making a minimum amount of excavating necessary.

"The finish of the buildings will be stucco and adobe veneer. Roofs will be of shake. The style of design cannot be labeled under any architectural heading, unless it be 'Carmel'. It is simple in line, with much window space for light and view, and built of materials which are much used in this community because they have been found suitable to the natural background and climatic conditions.

"A principal advantage which has recommended the plan to the board is its provision for expansion and adaptation to possible changing needs of the school. The plant is designed in a number of individual units: a separate building for the shop, for the gymnasium, for the library, and for other instructional purposes. Each of these units can easily be expanded when there is need without necessitating any readjustment in the general plan.

"One of the constructional features of the building, which calls for all roof weight to be supported by the outside walls, also was planned with a view to simplicity of alteration. Room partitions can be changed easily, since they do not have any structural part in the buildings.

"The gymnasium and shop buildings, which call for very large roof space, will be constructed with steel arches. Other buildings will have a framework of wood.

"Bilateral lighting is one of the many new features of school planning which will be provided in the Carmel high school. This method of handling windows to make the maximum use of daylight is of particular advantage in this climate, and should materially decrease the need for artificial lighting. High windows along the corridor side of the rooms reflect the daylight on the ceiling, providing 'indirect daylighting' which will supplement the regular light from the full-length windows on the other side of the room.

"The entire plant will consist of eight buildings. These include two general classroom units; the library unit, which has a service room, browsing room, storage and supply space, as well as the library study hall; the administration unit, which will provide offices, nurses' rooms, a student activity room, general supply room, and teachers' room; gymnasium; industrial arts shop; home-making unit; and cafeteria. The plan also blocks out a space for an auditorium, in case the district desires to build one in the future.

"Plans for the Carmel high school were drawn by Franklin & Kump, Jr., of Fresno. This firm is an outstanding one in the field of school planning, with a long record of successful school plants in the state."

Artists' Ball January 20 Promised

An artists' ball, first ever to be given by the Carmel Art Association, is being planned for Saturday evening, Jan. 20.

Now that the association has its large gallery available for such an occasion, a ball on a large scale has become a possibility.

Only members may attend, but the association has so large a group of sustaining members that a large attendance is anticipated.

Already Byington Ford, who has been master of ceremonies for many a successful affair in Carmel, has promised to provide entertainment numbers.

CARMEL WOMAN'S CLUB MONDAY PROGRAM CHANGED

Because of illness, the speaker scheduled for the meeting Monday of the Carmel Woman's Club will be present. Instead, Patricia Doidge and Arthur Edwards of San Francisco will appear in a number of character sketches at Pine Inn at 2:30.

Services were held this week in Salinas for Dr. John Alexander Beck, brother of Chris Beck and the late J. E. Beck of Carmel. A beloved resident of Salinas, Dr. Beck was 78. He retired from active practice three years ago.

CALL 66 OR 67 TUESDAY FOR CAR TO GO TO POLLS

As a convenience to voters, cars will be at the disposal of anyone calling Carmel 66 or 67, according to announcement by a local committee interested in encouraging a large and representative turnout at the polls.

Carmel polls are at the Masonic Hall and the Watson Nursery and will be open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. Crespi Hall will be the polling place for Point Lobos precinct.

Adamic's Literary Success Attributed To Hard Work

Louis Adamic, noted writer and author of "My America" and "The Native's Return", who will speak before the Carmel Forum at Sunset auditorium next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, modestly attributes his success as a writer to hard work.

Just as Jack London wrote each day, so does Adamic pursue constantly his muse.

Adamic, whose first magazine article was accepted when he was working as a stevedore on the docks in San Pedro, does not wait until inspiration twitches at his sleeve before sitting down to write.

Every morning promptly at 9:00 o'clock he sits down in his study in his delightful suburban home at Milford, New Jersey, and, simply, writes.

Some days he writes much faster and with less need for change and alteration than others. He frequently rewrites, but he writes every day, virtually without fail. Even when he is on lecture tour he is constantly taking notes, writing down ideas and expressions that he may want to use at some later time.

Adamic estimates that he has traveled some 100,000 miles across the United States since he came to this country in 1913 and during the next year or so he expects to travel at least that much again collecting material for his next book, which he will call, "A Nation of Nations," and in which he will try to show the cultural contributions of the some 50 nationalities and racial groups which have gone into the making of modern industrial America. Some of his information comes from questionnaires, some of which have been received by Carmelites of note born in other countries.

Though he is proud to be a writer—he prefers this term incidentally to that of "author" or "novelist"—he feels that it is not a vocation in which one must wait until possessed by a particular mood. "I write or work at collecting material for writing every day, practically all the time, in fact."

Adamic is married to Stella Sanders. Their honeymoon trip was to Adamic's native Slovenia in what is now Yugoslavia and provided the material for his sensationally successful, "The Native's Return."

Adamic's other books include: "My America", "Cradle of Life", "Dynamite", "A House in Antigua", "Grandsons" and "Laughing in the Jungle."

His lecture subject here before the Carmel Forum will be "Let's Be Americans!"

General Meeting of Woman's Club Set for Monday

The November general meeting of the Carmel Woman's Club will be held on Monday at 2:30 o'clock at Pine Inn.

Character sketches by two San Francisco entertainers have been arranged as the speaker originally scheduled will be unable to appear.

This meeting is especially dedicated to new members. The president, Mrs. J. E. Abernethy; the chairman of hospitality, Mrs. W. H. Perkins, and her committee, and Mrs. W. E. Heathorne and Mrs. Joseph G. Hooper of the reception committee will welcome new members who will be the guests of honor at the tea which will be served after the meeting.

The hospitality committee includes Mrs. W. H. Perkins, chairman; Mrs. W. H. McCabe, Mrs. D. E. Nixon, Mrs. J. M. Albee, Mrs. J. F. Hancock, Mrs. Louise Grigsby, Mrs. Ida M. Theurer, Mrs. H. L. Clement, and Mrs. J. E. Ainsworth.

Off the point

The "point" referred to in the title of this column is not Carmel Point, nor is it any body of land projecting into the water. It's the "point" that people mean when they say "stick to the point." However, in this case, the "point" is merely a point of departure, not something to be adhered to. It gives the writer a nice, free feeling that he can roam all over the place.

As good a jumping off place as any is Ham & Eggs. And, for a good long jump, let's go all the way to 1942. What are we going to be fighting then? Unless California's recent history is reversed, we're going to have something just as screwy as Ham & Eggs to worry about in 1942, and in 1946 and 1948 and 1950, too.

Thus far the more obviously crackpot ideas which have arisen every so often to plague the people who will pay the bill have been defeated, but that is no guarantee that we can lick them forever. Anyway, it's not a pleasant prospect to face to realize that this thing can go on and on ad infinitum.

Campaigns to educate the electorate to vote against economic nostrums may be placed in the same category as war. They're based on a destructive principle. Millions of dollars may be spent, but nothing is produced. When the battle is won, all you have left are the echoes of the shells which exploded. The money spent to fight a war or defeat a crackpot idea could have been used productively in the manufacture of something for the good of humanity, but instead its just gone.

Of course, it's a definite advantage for humanity to win the battle against Ham & Eggs, but we've also got to consider if we want to have to do the same thing all over every few years or whether some continuing campaign against such foolishness will not stop these panaceas before they can get started.

An educated man or woman isn't so likely to fall for Ham & Eggs as an uneducated one, even though his economic position be the same and his need for financial aid be equal. The job of education belongs to business, for it's business which is paying for the fight against these ideas. The bankers, industrial executives and merchants who are footing the bill for the work against Ham and Eggs might well consider continuing their campaign after Election Day.

Well, it's something worth pondering. The organizations which have preached against war since 1918 didn't prevent the war now going on in Europe, but they were successful, certainly, in making a great number of us conscious of the waste of war, the futility of engaging in one, the horror of participating in one and in strengthening our resolve to keep the United States out of war. Maybe we can be made just as conscious of the waste and futility of having to fight unsound economic plans.

Another menace, seen in operation this week, was the youth who believes it is good fun to hurl an egg or a spoiled vegetable at a clean window or through an open door. This misconception of fun was widely in evidence on Tuesday. It's something, too, that education can correct, education taking the form of a strong hand or switch applied with emphasis in the proper place.—A. M.

It is not easy to say how far an affable and courteous manner in conversation may go toward winning the affections.—Cicero.

Benjamin Minges, Long in Grocery Business, Dead

Long in business on the Monterey peninsula and successor to Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Schweninger in the Carmel Grocery, Benjamin F. Minges died at the age of 64 years on Sunday evening after an extended illness.

Born in Stockton, Mr. Minges was first in the oil business and lived here continuously for the past 31 years except for two years while in business in Hollister. For 12 years he was manager of the local branch of the Standard Oil company, for whom he pioneered this territory. He then bought the Carmel Grocery, which he owned and managed for 14 years.

Selling his business to Fred McIndoe three years ago, Mr. Minges retired because of ill health. Death occurred after several operations in recent years.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ora Minges of Carmel; two brothers, Ed Minges of Monterey and George Minges of Merced; and two daughters, Mrs. Marion Julliard of San Francisco and Mrs. Audrey Hull of Hollister, and two grandchildren.

Services were held Tuesday afternoon, Rev. T. J. Barkle officiating, followed by cremation.

LAUNCHING OF RED CROSS CAMPAIGN DRAWING NEAR

On Saturday, Armistice Day, Nov. 11, the American Red Cross will inaugurate its 1940 Roll Call, for which the national goal is a million new members.

The Carmel Red Cross, under the leadership of Mrs. Sidney A. Trevvett, is preparing to give every adult in the Carmel District an opportunity to renew membership in American Red Cross as well as to subscribe to the local relief program for the coming year.

More than 50 loyal men and women have pledged their services to aid the Carmel Roll Call. Final instructions will be given to the workers at two meetings next week.

At the home of Mrs. Trevvett, on Nov. 8, the district organization will meet at 2:30 for the purpose of being assigned to specific districts by Mrs. William N. Dekker, chairman of the field forces.

On Wednesday evening, the committee for the business district will meet at headquarters to receive prospect lists and final instructions for the canvass. E. H. Ewig, chairman, will be in charge.

The Carmel Red Cross is faced with the heaviest budget in its chapter's history, amounting to $5500. This is due to increased welfare demands throughout the territory and the added demands from the war-torn countries of Europe. Already the chapter has spent more than $500 for materials for surgical dressings and garments for refugees are in the making.

Mrs. John W. Dickinson, chairman for the production war relief committee, states that a larger quota for surgical dressings and garments has been accepted and that services of a number of women who can take away cut out garments and sew them in their own homes can be utilized at this time.

"Keep Your Red Cross Ready" by being prepared to subscribe to its broad humanitarian program.

Women's League Forming Group on Propaganda

Members of the Monterey County League of Women Voters are meeting on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. L. O. Kellogg, Scenic Drive and 11th, to form a new study group.

This group will devote its activities to the study of propaganda and literature of the Institute of Propaganda Analysis will be the basis of study.

The Institute of Propaganda Analysis, it is pointed out, is a non-profit organization with the "object of through scientific research to help the public recognize propaganda and appraise it."

Mrs. Joseph Schoeninger will explain what the institute has done since its organization in 1937.

Members of the League of Women Voters and their friends are invited to attend in order to give this new study group a good start. Plans are to continue the group meetings through the winter months.

Ronald Telfer Again to Read Plays for Legion Auxiliary

The Carmel unit of the American Legion auxiliary announces a new series of play readings by the San Francisco dramatic interpreter, Ronald Telfer, who has entertained Carmel audiences during past seasons.

Telfer is well known to Carmelites and his readings are always keenly anticipated.

The readings will be in support of the auxiliary's welfare work in addition to enhancing the winter calendar of cultural events.

The first reading will be on Saturday, Dec. 2, with subsequent programs Jan. 13 and Feb. 10, and will be given at the Carmel Legion Club hall on Dolores street south of Eighth. A late New York comedy is on the list.

Great is the reward of self-sacrifice, though we may never receive it in this world.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Douglas School Notes

This week's assembly at the Douglas School was entertained by the younger group who presented a play entitled "The Tree Dwellers." The live oak tree beside the elementary class room made an ideal spot for dramatizing the high lights in the lives of the Tree Dwellers. The play was about people of long ago before they had either fire or tools and the only things they could use were their hands, clubs and stones. They had to watch out for wild animals such as bears, tigers and lions. Each dweller lived in a tree by himself. The children taking part were Barbara Bachelder, Jo Crail, Lee Louise Van Ess, Marilyn Thatcher, Jo Glasgow, Muriel Glasgow, and Nick Reynal. The children showed in pantomime what may have happened long before man dreamed of controlling his own destiny.

Hallowe'en was celebrated at Douglas School with a party for the elementary department Tuesday afternoon while the boarding group enjoyed their party in the evening.

Guests at the Douglas school have been Mrs. Ralph Kline and her son, Quirk from San Diego, who is a former Douglas camper and now a sophomore at Stanford. Rex Hardy, another former camper at Douglas, is on the peninsula taking pictures for Fortune Magazine, and was a dinner guest at the school.

Mrs. Grace Douglas is attending the Headmistresses Association of the Pacific Coast meeting at the Fairmont Hotel this week-end. This evening, Dr. Paul Cadman, director of the American Research Foundation and former professor of economics and dean of men at the University of California, will speak on "The Role of Education in a Time of Social Crisis." Mrs. Douglas will speak on "The Training which the Douglas School is giving in the teaching of Democracy in the present crisis of 1939."

INDUSTRIAL CAGE LEAGUE

Clifford Squier announced yesterday the formation of Carmel's first industrial basketball league in connection with the Carmel adult school. Four teams have been entered by the Carmel Athletic Club, Shell Oil Company, Sunset School Faculty, and the A. D. H. Company. Other teams are invited to enter.

Carmel School Board Regular Meeting Set Over to Nov. 14

The regular November meeting of the Carmel unified school board, originally scheduled for Tuesday, has been postponed because of the conflict with the election.

The trustees will now hold their meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 14, at 4 o'clock.

Play will start Nov. 15, with practice each Monday and Wednesday evening from now until games start.

This property, house and two lots, within business zone, needs very little to turn it into a successful site for an antique shop. Also an interior decorator and an architect could make headquarters there.

A little labor, a barrel of white-wash, sun-proof curtains of lavender, dirty-yellow shutters, and some strings of vivid corn, and there it is.

And, at the cost of a very simple home. Later, the lots alone will bring a handsome price.

CARMEL MISSIONARY SOCIETY PREPARES BOXES FOR NAVAJO

The Carmel Missionary Society has collected two boxes of warm clothes, scrap books, a number of small and large comforters and other good and helpful things which will be sent to the Navajo Indians of Oraibi, Ariz.

The Missionary Society met Tuesday for a busy day of preparing these parcels and during the meeting heard messages from foreign lands on the condition of Christian women in Korea, Japan, Philippines and China.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar E. Berninghaus of Taos, N. M., have been Carmel visitors. Mr. Berninghaus, an artist, has designed floats and decorations for the Veiled Prophet ball in St. Louis for the past dozen years. Mrs. Berninghaus is president of the board of the Harwood Foundation of Taos.

Egypt Is Subject of Student Talks

In Mrs. Ann B. Uzzell's room recently were shown some interesting homemade movies. These movies were a part of the program that was presented to admiring audiences as a part of the completion of an Egyptian unit the class had just finished. These were a part of the program, because there was more to it than that as there were also short talks accompanying each individual picture. The audience included parents and Mr. R. J. Gale's class.

The program was as follows: Ruth Townsend announced each of the speakers. Connie Leichter, taking the place of Francis Shea, who was absent, spoke on the location of Egypt; Betty Ann Sparks, on the Nile river; Arthur Templeton, on early Egyptian pictures, and showed the movies; Peri Koehler, early Egyptian music; Betty Ryland played an Egyptian piece on the piano; Alice Morehouse was absent so Pamela Dormody took her place and spoke on science; Charlotte Dawson, pyramids; Susan Walters, trade; Betty Ryland, Egyptian religion; Martha Moller, the Sphinx; Ty Burhams, writing; Ann Hodgson, crops; Mary Jean Elliot, schools; Connie Leichter, art; Barbara Josselyn, government; Ramon Narvaez, what

Eighth Graders' Art
Drama League Meets

The eighth grade Art and Drama League, ably led by M. C. Lanyon, is busily rehearsing an Armistice Day program. It will be ready for presentation to the student body on Nov. 10. The program will be varied to bring out the different talents of the group and to give a comprehensive narration of the facts concerning the Armistice.

Those participating are: Cynthia Klein, Elinor Smith, Baird Bardarson, Phyllis Jones, George Moller, Walter Warren, Noreen Kelsey, Vivian Ohm, Tony Van Riper, Sandy Burhams, Marie Elizalde, Loretta Paramore, Mona Sage.

Egypt gave the World; Pamela Dormody, modern Egypt; Joan Dekker, books; and then as a conclusion, she told an old Egyptian fairy tale.

Directly following this Edgar Hoffman and Gale Frates gave short talks on how much their classes had enjoyed the program. The two boys were from Mr. Gale's room. This was a grand ending to a grand program.

—SUZANNE WATSON.

Volleyball Teams
Conclude Series

Each grade in the Carmel junior high school has organized a volleyball league. Teams of the seventh grade league played to determine the championship in their grade and captains of these teams were Claire Warner, Patsy Lowell, Ruth Funchess and Jill Arnold. Jill Arnold's team won.

In the eighth grade the teams captained by Kraig Short, Vivian Ohm and Cynthia Klein played. Vivian Ohm's team won.

Yvonne Welsh, Martina Tait, Peggy Gargiulo and Aveline Quinn led in the ninth grade, with Peggy Gargiulo's team winning.

Interclass games were also played this month, the ninth grade again winning.

The team was Peggy Gargiulo, Margaret Wishart, Betty Bucklan, Doris Evans, Eileen McEldowney, Henrietta Erickson, Martina Tait, Yvonne Welsh.

—MARIE ELIZALDE.

School Orchestra
Now Larger Unit

During the last two years the school orchestra has been gradually developing. Now it is better than ever before. There are more members, better players and more interest in music. Throughout the year the orchestra will appear several times before the student body and public.

Some of the pieces that they will play will be by Mozart and Brahms. Orchestra practice is on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 8 a. m.

Members of the orchestra are:

Violins—Hans Sapock, Douglass Calley, Peri Koehler, Sonja Koehler, Victor Harber, Edward Seiffert, Betty Mae Bell, June Delight Canoles, Marion Dongiallo and Joy Melrose.

Bells—Barbara Mylar, Ruth Funchess, Patricia Timbers and Willette Torres.

Cello—Elinor Smith.

Clarinets—Baird Bardarson, Howard Lockwood.

Trumpets—Jim Handley, Jim Heisinger, Jim Greenan.

Drum—John Wood.

Bass drum—Jimmy Jansen.

The orchestra leader is Miss Grace Knowles, instructor of music.

—JIM HANDLEY.

Football Laurels
Taken by Tigers

At last the Carmel scholastic football championship is won and the victors are Vincent Torras' Tigers, winning by the score of 2 to 0. The reason for the victory on the part of the Tigers probably was that they had their captain, Vincent Torras, who has just returned from a three weeks hunting trip.

At the beginning of the first half the Jaguars received the opening kick and for the whole first quarter the Jaguars completely outplayed the Tigers, being on their side of the field nearly all the time and once the Tigers were nearly forced to have a safety when Baird Bardarson slipped within one foot of his own goal.

In the second quarter the first and only blood was drawn when Kenneth Jones, captain of the Jaguars, attempted a kick but the opposing team rushed them so fast that he could not get it off.

He slipped behind the goal line when Del Wilson and John Graham were just about to tag him. That slipping caused the Jaguars to have two points against them so they had the ball on the 20-yard line and first down for the Jaguars.

In the last two quarters no scores were made, so the Tigers were the undisputed football champions of the Carmel junior high school. After that both teams gave each other a yell and went home, one wishing they had won the game and the other glad that they had.

And so ends the so long disputed football championship!

—BAIRD BARDARSON.

MICROPHONE IN USE

For the first time microphones were used in a recent student body meeting. When the students sat down, they faced silence. Out of nowhere was heard Mr. O. W. Bardarson introducing Lila Whitaker, Doris Evans, and Sandy Burhams, who gave short talks to encourage students to buy tickets to the Carmel Junior High School dance.

The microphone, a new addition to the Sunset school, will be used for student body activities and the Carmel Forum.

—ROY PARSONS.

Take care not to begin anything of which you may repent.

—Pubilius Syrus.

FIFTH GRADE ELECTS

The class officers of the fifth grade are: president, Molly Osgood; vice-president, Jerry Shepherd; secretary, Dick Froli. Two committees have been appointed, the entertainment committee, chairmaned by Max Hodges, and the reporting committee, headed by Adele Thompson. Committee members are Michael Ryan, Patricia Machado, Dick Froli, Marti Katz, Roger Byers and Barbara Stonely.

—JIM GREENAN.

HALLOWE'EN FESTIVITIES

Hallowe'en is here again and its spirit is creeping throughout the schools. Mrs. Frances Cottle Johnson's eighth grade invited Mr. Arthur Hull's eighth grade to a Hallowe'en party Tuesday. The group gathered in the lunch room which was gaily decorated with corn stalks, autumn leaves and pumpkins. The time was passed dancing to the music of a phonograph and devouring doughnuts, apple cider and candy.

The entertainment committee brought fun and frolic to the audience. The committee follows: chairman, Irving Williams; Baird Bardarson, Bob Holmes, Jim Greenan, Cynthia Klein, Elinor Smith and Barbara Bolin.

—BILL MONROE.

DISCONTINUE TRIPS

Due to rain and cold weather the Carmel junior high school section has discontinued its weekly trips to the Mission Ranch Club. The trips will be resumed in April and it is possible that there will be two classes a week. Archery and basketball will replace these activities.

"What a beautiful new floor lamp!"

"Yes, it is amazing how it changed my whole living room!"

When you buy a lamp for your home, make sure it will be able to produce enough light and the proper kind of light for comfortable seeing. Such a lamp is pictured here. Note the three important essentials of this I.E.S. Better Sight Lamp. And if you will remember these three points you will be getting a lamp that gives you your money's worth in proper lighting. It is a real pleasure to read and work by the light of a lamp that gives enough of the right kind of light. You will be delighted, too, how it will make a room glowingly radiant and beautiful.

A three-light bulb big enough to do a real lighting job. 100-200-300 watts for the average room. 200-300-500 watts for rooms with high ceilings.

A diffusing bowl under the shade provides pleasing light—softly diffused and without glare. Diffused light is comforting to the eyes.

A shade with a white lining produces one-third again as much light as one with a dark colored lining. Ideal reading light at all times.

HITLER AND HITLERISM

In connection with the reporting at some length in last week's Pine Cone of a locally delivered appraisal of Hitler and his program we would like to go on record (by popular request) on our feelings about Mr. Hitler.

To state completely our views it is necessary to divide the topic into Hitler and Hitlerism.

Hitler himself, in our opinion, is the tragic misfortune of Germany and Europe. As an individual heading a European state he is not an American problem. He is a European problem, the result of mismanagement, dishonesty, intrigue and stupidity in European statecraft. He is the sore that has festered on the diseased German political body, that body having been rendered and kept diseased through European corruption.

Had Germany been a healthy, sound political unit Hitler could not have attached himself to it. His doctrines could not have survived in a normal state. If, after the World War of 1914-1918, Germany had been helped by her former foes or had altogether been wiped off the face of the earth, there would have been no Hitler. But Hitler is the result of the policy which would neither let the Reich die nor let it really live.

On the other hand, we have Hitlerism, or Naziism, a form of government which has spread its tentacles beyond the boundaries of Germany. Basically, this form of government holds that the state is supreme, that everything within the state is subject to the welfare of the state. As is inevitable, one man, Hitler, decides what constitutes the good of the state. This one basic tenet is the pinnacle of the Nazi pyramid. Other lesser beliefs make up the rest of the complete National Socialist doctrine, varying in offensiveness to those of us inculcated at an early age with American ideals.

It is extremely unfortunate that there are some in the United States who have listened sympathetically to the siren song of Naziism. They have attempted, with varying degrees of success, to spread the Nazi philosophy. They have pointed out, with some justice, that employment has increased in Germany since Hitler came into power. They have pointed to this and that as evidence that Naziism is superior to Democracy. There are answers to these claims, but they don't concern us. The fact that preparations for war have absorbed the idle in Germany is insignificant in the general argument. You can even grant that Naziism has cured every ill that has its counterpart in our democratic (of course, it hasn't, but go that far for the sake of argument) and still it isn't worth what we have.

However, we've got to recognize what we have in Democracy and take steps to preserve it. Loose-thinking and loose-talking can do our cause irreparable damage. We've got to make an issue of Democracy, to sit down and ask ourselves do we want a democratic system or do we want something else. It is all well and good for us to say we can adopt some of the things from Naziism or Fascism or Communism to our own system, but it may be better to shun all of them. Democracy can improve within itself. The grafting upon it of off-shoots from totalitarian philosophies is not needed. All we have to do is decide what we want. When we know that, and there can be only one choice for Americans, we'll be equipped to withstand the infiltrations of foreign doctrines.

Watsonville interests are making efforts to have the Carmel-San Simeon coast highway's northward extension routed directly through the Apple City on its way toward Santa Cruz. Announced plans have been to follow more closely the shores of the bay, with only an alternate route through Watsonville.

O LITTLE HOUSE IN ARCADY

*O little house in Arcady
So filled with song! so filled with mirth!
Why did you knock, Melpomene?*

*Behind the door (you could not see)
Were all the glad things of the earth.
O little house in Arcady.*

*The daffodils were nodding free
Within the garden's fragrant girth.
Why did you knock, Melpomene?*

*We drank of joy unconsciously
Slighting each heady moment's worth.
(O little house in Arcady!)*

*Until your shadow blighted me,
When all was young and fresh from birth.
Why did you knock, Melpomene?*

*I stagger at the iron decree
That shatters all, for aching dearth.
O little house in Arcady,
Why did you knock, Melpomene?*

—GERTRUDE FULTON TOOKER.

THE MOUNTAIN QUAIL

*Today in the midst of traffic I heard a quail calling
And saw gray granite mountains on the sky.
The time was autumn, for all the aspens were falling
And the groves were dry.*

*The groves were littered with thousands of golden leaves,
And thousands more come rocking gently to the ground...
The day was warm, for the heat rose up in waves;
And I heard that sound...*

*Here where the motors scream and the crowds pass
It came, as out of the shadow beside a pool:
A quiet question uttered from the mountain grass,
So clear, so cool*

*That I went blind, and something in me was broken
That long had strained—oh, it was nothing I heard,
But as if within my secret mind had spoken
The very bird...*

*"This want grows keen," I whispered, "when it can bury
A city, make aspens actual to the eye,
Become a bird, and use a bird's sweet query
For its own cry."*

—MAURICE LESEMANN, from "Poetry"

*There is a vastness to death
A dignity of space,
Untroubled even by a breath;
The proud imperial face*

*Knows nothing. And the breast
Where changes will occur
Goes down into the grave to rest
With no interpreter.*

—ANON.

LOOKING UP!

Unlike many notes of optimism sounded during times of indifferent prosperity, the message brought back from a cross-country trip by S. F. B. Morse, Del Monte Properties chief, is one to "hang your coat and hat on." Mr. Morse knows this country and present conditions and his report on what can be expected for the peninsula during the coming year is most welcome.

It is more than coincidence that Mr. Morse repeats what many others have already said in Carmel, that California is bound to benefit by the curtailment of travel abroad.

"In California, the Monterey peninsula is going to be the best known travel spot of all," Mr. Morse declares. We might add that Carmel's name is already known far and wide and the encouragement that visitors will be given to come to the Monterey peninsula will be enhanced by the opportunity to see also Carmel.

Mr. Morse's plan is in part to boost "summer sports in winter", which, after all, just about states in concrete form an idea which long ago should have been more generally exploited for the benefit of this area which is blessed to such an extent by good weather through portions of the year which elsewhere are usually disagreeable or severe.

We may complain about our summer fogs—but, in reality, they keep Carmel cool in summer for the benefit of our many visitors from the hot interior valleys—and summer, in point of weather, may be regarded as Carmel's worst season. Our delightfully warm and calm falls, bright springs, and comparatively clear and mild winter weather are really something to crow about.

If we can bring more people here for winter vacations, as Mr. Morse proposes to do, then more will come here to live. There is little doubt but that many of these will chose Carmel for the reasons that have caused those of us who are already here to establish homes in Carmel.

THEY LOOKED—THEY STAYED

This parable has to do with a Los Angeles business man and his wife.

They had driven by Carmel on the coast road several times before curiosity compelled them to drive into Carmel. They came only for a meal and a "look-see".

"We had a good meal—and we didn't get 'stuck' for it," they said. "The price was just right and everyone was so pleasant and friendly. We went to a shop to buy an ash tray. Again we weren't 'stung'. We like Carmel because it isn't just another resort town. Frankly, we were very much surprised that you have been able to keep Carmel so charming."

Now this isn't a new story, but a very old one. It is only worth repeating because it continues to be a true story about Carmel.

And it's just a reminder that Carmel has got to go on being this sort of place. It may seem to be letting things drift along not to go out for booster advertising and all that sort of thing, but we'll find in the future as in the past that it is just this way of handling things that has paid dividends.

Carmel has a future so long as this continues to be Carmel's path. Property values may never grow at so great a pace as in the past, but they will remain at a high level, and growth of the surrounding area will be gradual and certain.

We'll always welcome visitors who like what we've got to offer—and we really have something, too, as our Los Angeles newcomers so graciously pointed out.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

Henrietta Shore is honored again in the world of art with selection for the current exhibition at the George Passelott Gallery in New York City, which included a group of paintings by American and European artists.

Included in this exhibit are Edwin Dickinson of New York, and the Europeans, Segonzac, Vlaminck, Ortiz, Gleizes, Chirico, and Braque, among others.

That man is here again—Phil Nesbitt, peripatetic artist-writer, who long contributed the column "Of Men and Beasts" in The Pine Cone.

Nesbitt, who is working on several new literary-artistic projects of his own in San Francisco, is having a "Circus show" at Gump's from Dec. 4 to Christmas, featuring his China sketches and children's fantasies.

Nesbitt's work for children seems to have caught on, and Rand McNally is reported to have asked him to write and sketch a book for them. He is also doing one for a San Francisco house which is bringing out a children's book for the Christmas trade. In addition he's appearing in the magazines, so Phil's a busy man these days.

"He knew him when."

Ed Rosenthal, newspaperman at present carrying the message to vote

"yes" on Proposition No. 5, dropped into Carmel this week on his tour of this part of the State, and recalled an earlier visit, on which occasion he came to see Clyde Brion Davis, author.

Davis, who wrote such successful books as "The Anointed" and "The Great American Novel", spent last winter in Carmel, and is now residing in Hamburg, N. Y.

Rosenthal, who has held a lot of jobs in the newspaper world, including a position on the Buffalo Times, told about the day Davis received a telegram of acceptance and a fat check for his first novel.

Davis, who was Rosenthal's boss at that time, immediately sent out for a case of Scotch. Any of Davis' Carmel friends will testify it must have been the best Scotch obtainable.

The staff was in the midst of getting out an edition. "I don't know how we did it!" Rosenthal declared, and went on to extoll Clyde Brion Davis, whose spontaneous friendliness makes him well liked wherever he goes.

Davis has since written "Nebraska Coast", besides a boys' book.

James Fitzgerald, peninsula artist, member of the Carmel Art Association and well known for his paintings of the Atlantic and Pacific sea coasts, at present has an exhibit at the Stanford University Art Gallery.

According to a Stanford release to California newspapers, the 30 water colors being shown by Fitzgerald are "strong, virile brush paintings with a bold, confident technic seldom used in watercolor work". . . . The artist who works part of the time in his studio in New England and the rest of the year in California, has the ability to produce the maximum results with the minimum of means. To view his rock and water scenes, hillside and tree scenes in comparison with the usual oversmooth, much detailed watercolors produces the same reaction as reading a technical, scientific description of a sunset and then reading a brief glorious description or verse by noted writer or poet.

Fitzgerald has recently exhibited in New York and London galleries, is at present on the peninsula working on local coast scenes in his Monte Regio studio overlooking Monterey Bay.

Those who remember Puss Chinn are interested to learn that she has been singing with the San Francisco Civic Opera. Laurran Chinn, daughter of the late Rev. Austin Chinn, who was rector of All Saints Episcopal Church for many years, and her mother now live in San Francisco.

Puss has appeared in Rigoletto with such outstanding singers as Lawrence Tibbett and Lily Pons. To sing in opera has long been her goal.

One of Carmel's "People Talked About" is Pal, who is ever fresh material for visiting scribes. Dallas E. Wood, Palo Alto Times writer, found him so on a recent visit and wrote:

One of the best known and most beloved of Carmel's residents is a dog mixture of bulldog and Alaskan (Husky) known by the variable names of Hoover, Pal and Joyous. He answers to them all.

Joyous, as most people call him, is nominally the owned pet of a definite citizen. But he prefers the "independent" life. Hence, he sleeps in office doorways, the post office lobby and restaurant entrances; he roams the streets in daytime, and mooches his food at different spots and from the various people on the street who buy him hamburger.

Joyous asks but three things of life—and gets them. He wants to be allowed to live his own life in his own way. He wants everybody to be kind to him and to scratch his hind quarters.

Joyous came to Carmel when a pup, and instantly became a town favorite. A resident artist did a portrait of him that was raffled, without any difficulty in disposing of the chances. When the rabies epizootic required the impounding of roving dogs, Joyous found himself in trouble. But with public opinion on his side, he emerged the victor. By general consent and official connivance, an exception was made in his case, and Joyous went at large, unmolested.

Likewise it has been found hopeless to enforce the dog collar ordinance in the case of Joyous. Repeatedly collars have been bought for him, but they have been stolen just as quickly by souvenir hunters. So no longer does the poundmaster bother about collars for Joyous.

The moral of this is that it pays to be popular.

R. J. Gale to Read "Family Portrait" for Church Guild

Friends and members of All Saints' parish will gather at the parish house at 8 o'clock next Monday night to hear R. J. Gale read "Family Portrait", the play that tells in the language of 1939 the story of the family of Christ.

Written by William Joyce Cowen and Lenore O'Grady, "Family Portrait" was first produced in New York last winter, with Judith Anderson playing the leading role of Mary, mother of Christ.

"Family Portrait" relates the life of Christ's family in Nazareth, at the time when stories of He and His works are spreading through Palestine. Although Christ does not appear directly in the finely written play, His influence is dominating through all of the scenes.

Careful interpretation of the play is guaranteed by the fact that it will be read by Gale, who, a member of the Sunset school faculty, is well known in Carmel for his weekly lectures on English and American literature, under sponsorship of the Carmel Adult School.

A few tickets are available at Stanford's drug store or from Rev. C. J. Hulsewé and Mrs. Vera Peck Mills. Refreshments will be served following the reading, which is for the benefit of All Saints Altar Guild.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Alton H. Walker in Carmel are Mr. Walker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Walker of Kansas City. They arrived in Oakland last week by plane and were met there by Alton Walker who flew them to Monterey, where he is the manager of the airport. Hayes Walker is the publisher of the Hereford Journal, livestock publication. He will attend the annual livestock show in Los Angeles this week.

The Commodore Hotel in San Francisco was the rendezvous for a good many Carmelites last week. Among David Prince's guests at the hotel were his father, Paul Prince of Carmel; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mawdsley, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Otto, Mrs. Laura Maxwell, Miss Janet Prentiss, Mr. and Mrs. Al Sparks and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Oden.

Mrs. Seymour Winslow of New York City visited Miss Elizabeth McClung White in Carmel last Sunday. Mrs. Seymour is connected with the Curtis Publishing company and is on an extensive tour contacting the company's distribution offices. She is traveling entirely by air and flew both to the peninsula and away.

This is Girl Scout week and the various troops on the peninsula have been holding celebrations. Climax of these various events is to be held tomorrow at Lover's Point in Pacific Grove from 11 a. m. to 3 p. m. In case of rain the place will be Holman's solarium.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Allyn of San Francisco arrived in Carmel on Monday after a fifteen-hundred-mile automobile trip through California and Nevada. They have taken a house on San Antonio street at Eleventh.

Joan Crawford, Norma Shearer and Rosalind Russell as they appear in "The Women", heading the all-feminine cast of the screen play based on Clare Booth's stage success. "The Women" plays at the Carmel Theater Sunday to Tuesday.

Guest of William Wood, manager of Robles del Rio Lodge, for the past month has been H. Moffat Foster, formerly on the office staff of Del Monte Lodge, who is leaving soon to return to his winter post at El Mirador Hotel at Palm Springs. Incidentally, he claims that even the famed desert resort cannot boast of finer climate than we have had here this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Roosevelt are arriving on Nov. 23 and will occupy the Log House below Big Sur. Mr. Roosevelt is on the staff of the New York Herald Tribune. Mrs. Roosevelt is the former Thirza Gates, of Pasadena, well known in Carmel.

C. W. Lee and his son, Robert Lee of Hollywood, went to Berkeley for the University of Southern California-University of California football game.

Harry Altman, occasional visitor to Carmel from Hollywood, dropped in to town early this week. He operates the Gotham restaurant on Hollywood boulevard.

Married in San Jose last Saturday afternoon were Miss Barbara Blauer and Dr. Leland Bowman. They have been honeymooning in Carmel and will make their home in San Jose.

Dr. and Mrs. James Hopper, Jr., of San Francisco were week-end visitors in Carmel. Dr. Hopper is on the staff of the University of California hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cannon drove down from Grass Valley last Friday and remained in Carmel until Sunday.

Barnet Segal recently returned from Los Angeles where he was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. William G. Young. Dr. Young, chemist, now on the staff of the University of California at Los Angeles, will be remembered as once connected with the Carnegie Laboratory in Carmel. At that time Bill Young was prominent in athletics.

It's Helen Wills Roark now. The former Mrs. Moody visited Carmel just before dashing off to Las Vegas, Nev., to become the bride of Aiden Roark, well known polo player and brother of the late Pat Roark. The groom is a former husband of Mrs. Sidney Fish (the former Mrs. George Gordon Moore). Mrs. Moody was a guest of the Mission Ranch Club during her Carmel sojourn. Roark, incidentally, is a cousin of Eric Coster of the Del Monte press bureau.

Mrs. David Evans came to Carmel on Saturday and is the guest of her sister, Mrs. G. R. Slocum. She has been on a trip round the world which was cut short at the Suez Canal due to conditions in Europe and necessitated her return through the Orient. This is Mrs. Evans' first visit to Carmel in two years. Her husband was at one time rector of All Saints' Church in Palo Alto.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Billinger of the Green Lantern, are traveling again this winter, but they have left their trailer behind. They will drive first to Phoenix, Ariz., then continue to Vermillion, S. D., go on to Bloomington, Ill., Mr. Billinger's old home town, and then to Florida. They expect to be away from Carmel for two or three months.

Stopping in Carmel this week on their way home from the San Francisco Fair have been Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Newsome of Los Angeles. Mr. Newsome is a government engineer in the south and designs prize-winning welded steel yachts as his hobby.

Miss May Rosecrans, harpist and diseuse, will give an hour of music and poems, accompanied on the harp at Del Monte hotel this evening. Miss Rosecrans will play from 9 to 10 o'clock and has invited her Carmel friends to hear her on this occasion.

Mrs. Mhyrl Frost of Dallas, Tex., arrived in Carmel on Wednesday and has taken a house on Camino Real for two months.

Mrs. Guy Catlin is back at her studios at the Carmel Art Institute after two months in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. H. Ellis of Vancouver, B. C., are guests at Robles del Rio Lodge in Carmel Valley. They are returning to their home after an extended visit in New York and New Orleans. Mr. Ellis is a solicitor for the Imperial Oil Company of Canada.

Miss Elsa Baumgart of San Francisco has been at Robles del Rio Lodge for two weeks as have also Miss Margaret Thompson and Miss Charlotte Johnson of the University of California.

Mrs. Gene Heywood of Evanston, Ill., and her mother, Mrs. Cecil Hopf of Yosemite, have been staying at Robles del Rio for some weeks.

Mrs. Palmer T. Beaudette has been a guest of the Clift Hotel while on a visit to San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kuster and their children, Collin and Marcia, spent an eventful four days at the San Francisco Fair last week. From their reports, they saw everything. Mrs. Kuster did better than most visitors as she saw the inside of the emergency hospital as a patient. The Mayo clinic exhibits were too much for her and she had to find air in a hurry. Unfortunately, she was not quick enough. When word that a woman had fainted got about and the crowd began to gather, Collin was very anxious not to miss even that much excitement but his father thought it was kinder to leave "the poor woman" alone until he found out it was Gay. However, a visit to the hospital and four stitches in her chin didn't keep Mrs. Kuster from going back the next day. They are all at their home on the Point and recovered from the experience, except for Marcia, who maintains she is "Miss America" and is addicted to revealing bathing suits. Their eldest son Shim is recovering from his recent serious illness on the Schulte ranch in Carmel Valley.

Miss Barbara O'Neill, film actress, who appeared as the deranged wife of Charles Boyer in "When Tomorrow Comes" at the Carmel Theater this week, has been the guest of her aunt, Miss Elsa Blackman for a week at her home on Carmelo street. Miss O'Neill returned to Hollywood on Tuesday and after a few days there will go east to New York to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David O'Neill. She has spent a good many of her summers here in the past and appeared locally on the Forest Theater stage.

Mr. and Mrs. Laidlaw Williams took a last look at the Fair on Treasure Island last week. They saw a great many interesting things but Mr. Williams maintains that one of the most thrilling was three banded gulls which he spotted on the parking lot. They had come all the way from Salt Lake City to see the exposition but from the look in their eye and the raucous opinions they were voicing seemed not unduly impressed.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard V. McMennamin have deserted Monterey to live in Carmel. They have taken "Kingsdown" on Carmelo street for eight months. Mr. McMennamin is the manager of the Mission Inn in Monterey. The McMennamins are delighted to be living here and hope to remain permanently.

Mrs. J. P. Chance went up to Berkeley last week and when she returned she had in the car her son, Jerome, and Phillip MacDougall, who deserted their studies at the University to enjoy the fine weather in Carmel. Also with her was Miss Edith Frisbie who had been in the bay region for several days.

Mrs. Joseph G. Hooper invited a group of her friends to breakfast on Friday morning of last week. After breakfast they played bridge. The table was decorated with masses of tuberous begonias and gay with pottery. Present on this occasion were Mrs. Louise Grigsby, Mrs. Dudley Kinsell, Mrs. W. E. Heathorne, Mrs. F. A. Greatwood, Miss Agnes Knight, Mrs. Abbie McDowell, Mrs. Isabel Winslow, Mrs. Kathryn Landsdowne, Mrs. Alfred Wheldon, Mrs. Coral Wreath Sly, Mrs. Alfred Hannon, Mrs. Elliott Bright, Mrs. John Jordan and Mrs. D. W. Roper.

Adolph Telchert and Frank Wickman arrived back here on Monday. They had been in Marshfield, Ore., for three weeks. While in the north Adolph gave a concert at a local music store with over 75 persons present. They don't have many pianos in Marshfield and when the proprietor of the store found he had a new Baldwin grand and a fine pianist both at the same time he prevailed upon Adolph to give the residents an unlooked-for treat.

Guests at Del Monte Hotel are Mrs. L. R. Tompkins and her daughter, Betty, of New York. Miss Tompkins is a student at Mills College and is on the peninsula recuperating from an operation for appendicitis. Mrs. Tompkins' husband is the vice-president of the United States Rubber company. Both he and his wife are old friends of Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Lloyd of Carmel.

Miss Mary Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stewart of Carmel Valley, who graduated from Stanford University last June as a major in Romance languages, is now in San Francisco attending Munson's business school. She plans to use her language training in the business world and is taking a ten-months course with this in mind.

Mrs. Jack Valley will give another of her talks at Del Monte hotel next Friday afternoon at 3 p. m. Tea will be served following the talk so those present may have the opportunity of meeting Mrs. Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. James Thoburn headed their station wagon north on Sunday and have been staying at their ranch near Sonora. They expect to be back in Carmel today or tomorrow.

On Monday Mrs. Charles C. Shepard, Jr., returned to her Pebble Beach home. She has been visiting her mother in Chicago for a month.

Dr. and Mrs. Albert Hodgkins, who make their home at Carmel Highlands, are going east to be away until after Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hargrave went to San Francisco on Tuesday to spend several days and attend the opera.

William Wood, manager of Robles del Rio Lodge in Carmel Valley, has been in Santa Barbara for several days this week.

Miss Helen Rosenkrans celebrated her birthday recently and received the congratulations of her many friends.

Last Saturday night when the moon was bright and the air exceedingly warm Miss Marion Kingland of the Walescroft Riding Club on Jack's Peak entertained her junior students at a Halloween party. First of all there was a horse show starting in the afternoon, then gymkhana games followed by supper at the barbecue pit, and, to top it all, Halloween games. Herbert Schaps, riding master, was in charge of the horse show and the judges were the parents of the children. Those taking part rode in masks and fancy costumes which were doffed for the games on horseback. Cowboy Smokey Webster and Mrs. Smokey and their trick horse, Buck, were on hand to add to the fun. Buck kissed all the guests goodnight. Joe Torres came too, with his accordion and sang cowboy and Spanish songs. Junior division members who enjoyed the evening of merriment were Caroline McEnery, Patsy Lovell, Edith Elizalde, Joan and Cynthia Carr, Mary and Mott Henderson, Dean and Nancy Arnold, Susan Walters, Constance David, Sue and Nancy Williams, Kenneth and Duane Graham, Gretchan Geyer, Roger and Nelson Byer, Sydney Hudson, Nancy Bell, Sydney Small, Erik Short, Claus and Hans Lehmann, Adele Thompson, Barbara Foster, Gareth and Deborah Deering and Sam and Anne Howard.

Miss Katherine Douglas of the staff of Fortune Magazine in New York City has been on the peninsula this week staying at Del Monte Hotel. With her were two photographers, Ancil Adams and Rex Hardy of San Francisco. They were gathering material and pictures for an article on Del Monte and the Monterey Peninsula which will appear in the January number of Fortune magazine.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin G. Johnson and their daughter, Nancy Ann, of Carmel Woods, have just returned after a five-week tour of the east. They stopped off in Minneapolis, their former home, and returned by way of Banff, Lake Louise and Victoria. B. C. Miss Johnson is resuming her studies at the Carmel Art Institute.

The Sunday night supper at the Mission Ranch Club was a gay and friendly affair again this week with the center of attention being Susie Ellen Duvall and her piano. The members and guests gathered around her for the singing of songs, both old and new. Jay McKenzie was on hand with his camera and took numerous flashlight pictures of those present. Among the new faces seen were those of Mrs. Alma Hearst, Harvey Taylor and Mrs. Ronald Colman, former wife of the screen star who has been stopping in Carmel on her way to Australia to visit her sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles D. Arnold of Carmel.

While in the south to attend the Women's Foreign Missionary Society meetings in Pasadena, Mrs. E. Frederick Smith found time to go down to San Diego to visit her son, E. Frederick Smith, Jr., who is in the navy. Friday was the day she chose to see him and, as it turned out to be Navy Day, she had a most interesting and colorful time in San Diego. Her son went back to Pasadena with her and remained over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex McBride are in Carmel. Mr. McBride leaves today but Mrs. McBride will remain for a week or longer. The McBrides, with their three sons, spent six months here last winter and are busy seeing their friends in the village.

Blanding Attracts Large Crowd for Vagabond Talk

It's always an event when Don Blanding, a Carmelite we share with Hawaii, gets up before a Carmel audience to talk. Last Friday evening he was the focus for a crowd that nearly filled Sunset auditorium and his "Drifter's Gold" evening proved of such drawing power that the Sunset Parent-Teacher Association has a good backlog for its school welfare budget during the coming year.

Blanding was at his best in the brief, vagabond introduction to the reading of his poems. His smooth eloquence, with picturesque phrasing, and well-timed comment warmed his audience to a peak of anticipation.

He told his listeners of the charms of Hawaii, of the things that made Carmel dear to him, of the simple practical people from whom he has sprung, all with typical Blanding touches of humor.

In striking contrast with the more purely sentimental side of Blanding's talk was the digression upon the Homeric literature of the Islands, relayed from generation to generation by means of the epic memory of the Polynesian. For illustration, Blanding recited part of a chant, the form in which these race memories were retained before writing was brought to Hawaii.

Although Blanding modestly admitted certain shortcomings in his learning of the native chant, his performance was nevertheless effective, gave an authentic atmosphere for his dissertation upon island life.

None could be better prepared to "sell" the Islands than Blanding, to whom they are a second home. Yet he did not stoop to laud the obvious, and was most persuasive in telling of the magnificent flight of the Clippers. In observing the cool men who operate the big Clippers and the efficiency of the ships themselves, Blanding admitted he had to be "humble before the spirit of man," the will to fly, the ability to design and build such vessels of the air.

Kona, on the big island of Hawaii, Blanding compared with Carmel. "Just as people are more apt to say, 'Ah, Carmel!'," so are they to say 'Ah, Kona!'" Blanding told his listeners. In Kona, Blanding spends his holidays, briefly torn from writing or staging annual revues in Honolulu, and enjoys moonlight swimming in the limpid waters of the Pacific.

Another sympathetic note which brought applause from his audience was struck when Blanding mentioned billboards. In Hawaii, he told us, billboards are tabu, kapu, so that Islanders do not see their scenery "strained through signs advocating that you drink this or that, or sleep on such-and-such a bed."

The stage was set with a gorgeous array of flowers and shrubs, suggestive of the flowers and tropical growths of Hawaii, and made a suitable setting for Blanding's talk of tropic delights and poems of sensuous quality.

Reading from his verse were enjoyed by those present, especially the touching "Cruise of the Spun Glass Ship" and the saucy "Spring".

Don Blanding gave his services without charge to the Parent-Teacher Association for the welfare fund. The flowers were loaned by the Bishop Nursery.

Ballet Caravan Is All-American Dance Offering

Lincoln Kirstein, responsible for the success of the American Ballet Caravan, is regarded as one of the most vital figures of the dance. When this famous company comes to Carmel on Wednesday, Nov. 22, to open the Carmel Music Society's 13th winter series, the audience will be presented with the proof of his contention: That an All-American Ballet can establish its worth and gather its own laurels here in the country of its origin.

Kirstein is truly a crusader; he sees no reason why the art of America should continue to pattern itself on European conceptions and traditions. He maintains that until America finds its own forms of art, fresh and original and basic, it will always be a reflection of something which it is trying to copy.

The personnel of the Ballet Caravan is youthful. The average age of the dancers in this group is 21. They are all American-born and enthusiastic about the task they have set themselves to. American composers have been commissioned to write the scores for the ballets, and noted painters have designed the scenery and costumes which are so new and original.

The care and detail devoted to each member combine to make this whole performance something to be remembered. In preference to the time-honored subjects of the dance, the modern and strictly contemporary scenes, such as the filling station, the land of the truck driver, and the outlaw, Billy the Kid, have been depicted and brought to life in a dramatic and vivid way. This is the material of which America is made, gathered by artists and presented through the vital medium of the dance.

Since the Ballet Caravan has been greeted with the highest enthusiasm during the whole course of its tour, it would be well to avoid being disappointed by securing tickets in good time. Mrs. Paul Flanders, who may be called at Carmel 22, is in charge of arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Danysh of San Francisco came to Carmel last weekend. Mrs. Danysh will be remembered in Carmel as Libby Ley.

Lily Pons' Program Released for Concert Tonight in San Jose

The program for the concert by Lily Pons, operatic singer who appears at San Jose Civic auditorium this evening, was released this week by the Denny-Watrous management. Constantino Gallinicos will be at the piano and Ary Van Leeuwen will play the flute obligato.

Miss Pons' program follows: Dites, que faut-il faire, anonymous; Alma mis (from Floridante), Handel; Quel rusculetto, Paradies. Aria—"Caro Nome" (from Rigoletto), Verdi.

Comment disant-ils, Liszt; Air de L'Enfant (from L'Enfant et le sortilège), Ravel; Il pleure dans mon cœur, Debussy; Fantoches, Debussy. Pretty Mocking-bird (with flute obligato), Bishop-La Forge.

Les Rosas d'Ispahan, Faure; A des oiseaux, Hue; The Nightingale, Alabieff-La Forge; Poupee valsante, Poldini-La Forge; Cupid Captive, La Forge.

Villanelle, Dell'Acqua.

Mr., Mrs. Ted Durien, Miss Tony Sender on Forum Schedule

Coming events on the Monterey peninsula forum include this evening's talk by Miss Tony Sender, able speaker on German affairs, who will appear at the Pacific Grove high school auditorium at 8 o'clock, and a talk later on by Mr. and Mrs. Ted Durien, who recently returned from a bicycle tour of Europe.

The Dureins, residents of Carmel, will lead a discussion before the Forum at Walter Colton school auditorium on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

"The Women", Hit on Broadway, Is Screen Offering

"The Women", film version of the Broadway sensation by the same name, shows the fair sex in all of its moods and with all of its foibles. It finds her in swank beauty salons, in exclusive gown shops, in the privacy of boudoir and bath. It thrusts at her inclination to gossip, and lauds her ingenuity.

Norma Shearer, appearing in the first modern society role she has done since "Riptide", is seen as Mary Haines, whose faith in her husband and love is given a terrific blow via the word-of-mouth campaign staged by Rosalind Russell as Sylvia Fowler, arch gossip. Joan Crawford is in the heavy part, as Crystal Allen, and the remainder of the cast is composed of 132 other women, including Mary Boland, Paulette Goddard and Joan Fontaine.

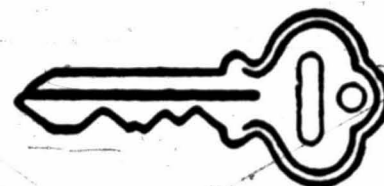

The screen adaptation of Clare Booth's stage success claims the most brilliant feminine cast ever assembled in Hollywood.

ELECTION DAY WARNING

Jerry M. O'Brien, chief enforcement officer of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act under the State Board of Equalization, draws attention to section 59 of this act in issuing the warning that "licensees will not be permitted to sell any alcoholic beverages during the time that the polls are open on Nov. 7, 1939."

Any licensee failing to observe the order will be subject to having his licenses suspended or revoked. O'Brien points out.

Mrs. Alfred Matthews and Mrs. E. Frederick Smith were in Pasadena last week to attend the Seventieth Anniversary of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church held at the First Methodist Church in Pasadena. Mrs. Matthews was for eleven years the president of the Pacific branch of the society which includes California, Nevada, Arizona and the Hawaiian Islands. She is now president meritus and in that capacity attended the meetings of the branch which were held the early part of the week. Mrs. Smith joined her on Wednesday of last week and with her attended the executive board meetings of the society. This is the last time that the meetings will be held under the title of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, as, due to the unification of the three branches of the Methodist faith, a new society is to be formed called the World Federation of Methodist Women.

Mrs. F. W. Ten Winkel gave a bridge-luncheon on Monday at her San Antonio street home in honor of Mrs. John J. Cushing, who is leaving Carmel for Santa Monica. Guests besides Mrs. Cushing were Mrs. Douglas Winslow, Mrs. John Abernethy, Mrs. Louise Hill, Mrs. Irene de Galler, Mrs. G. D. Lamke, Mrs. Ray DeYoe and Mrs. Alfred Wheldon.

Mrs. Linda Rooke-Ley and her son, Peter, are back in Carmel after a visit of several months in New York City. New York was getting cold so Linda was delighted on her return here to find last week-end's weather to greet her.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Oden of Pasadena drove to Carmel last week-end to visit Mr. Oden's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Oden. They will visit Death Valley on their way south.

Miss Elizabeth Small left on Wednesday afternoon for Pasadena where she will spend a few days visiting friends. She will be back in Carmel on Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bunn drove to San Francisco to attend the California University of Southern California game last week-end.

In San Francisco for the opera and also to attend the football game last week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Mulvin.

Mrs. Frederic Calkins leaves on Monday for a trip to New York City.

Christian Science

"Adam and Fallen Man" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, Nov. 5, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light" (Ephesians 5: 14). Other Bible citations will include: "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. . . . And God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good. . . ." (Gen. 1: 26, 31 to first period).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The harmony and immortality of man are intact. We should look away from the opposite supposition that man is created materially, and turn our gaze to the spiritual record of creation, to that which should be engraved on the understanding and heart, with the point of a diamond and the pen of an angel" (p. 521).

McCarthy Brings Ibsen to Stage Nov. 10 Weekend

Charles "Chick" McCarthy is going to give us a genuine glimpse of Ibsen when the curtain goes up next Friday evening on "A Doll's House", now in rehearsal at the First Theater in California.

Those who are acting with McCarthy are enthusiastic over the play and are thoroughly enjoying work under this director who has successfully directed for the Carmel Players for 18 months.

"A Doll's House" will be staged Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 10-12, under the Denny-Watrous management.

The cast, including leading actors of "Moor Born", first of the serious plays to be given under the aegis of the Denny-Watrous management last spring, is outstanding. It includes Noel Sullivan, Connie Bell, Gordon Knoles, Del Page, Willa Mae McIntosh, Jessie Joan Brown, Marion Howes, Caro Hildebrand, Eric Short.

That silence is one of the great arts of conversation is allowed by Cicero himself, who says that there is not only an art, but even an eloquence in it.—Hannah More.

Edith Lorand, Hungarian, Plays Violin Wednesday

As a special presentation by Kit Whitman and Del Monte Lodge, Edith Lorand, world-famed Hungarian violinist-conductor, will be heard in a violin recital in the main lounge at Del Monte Lodge next Wednesday evening at 8:30.

Miss Lorand, who graduated at 15 from the Royal Academy at Budapest, has studied under famous teachers, de Hubay and Flesch. She brings with her two valuable violins made during the early 18th century. The accompanist will be Ingolf Dahl.

LIBRARY BOOK FOUND

The missing Lord Cecil's "The Young Melbourne", recently taken from the Carmel Library without the customary checking-out procedure, is back at the Carmel Library this week, having been discovered left in a house by renters who had moved from town. Miss Elizabeth Niles, librarian, recently called attention to this practice of removing books in unorthodox manner.

"Wizard of Oz" Given at Sunset

The first and second grade of Sunset school, on Oct. 27, presented their version of "The Wizard of Oz". Their play was chosen from the three scenes from the moving picture version of the "Wizard of Oz" that impressed them most. The overture was played by the kindergarten rhythm band under the supervision of Miss Eletteth McQuilkin.

The performance was directed by Mrs. Lily Trowbridge and Miss Isabel Schultzberg with Mrs. Sylvia Heeter Jordan assisting with the scenery. All the intermediate grades attended.

The important characters were Dorothy Gale, Betty Gilmore; Toto, Russell Walter; Glinda, Carol Ann Burrows; the Bad Witch, Caryl Jane Hill; Tin Woodman, Billy George; Cowardly Lion, Lee Selvey; Scarecrow, Jimmy Kendall; Mayor, Edward Goodrich. —MONA SAGE.

Miss Crawford's Appearance Here for Polish Fund

Dorothy Crawford, whose original character sketches are well known and who has been compared with Ruth Draper and Cornelia Otis Skinner, will be presented before a Carmel audience at Sunset auditorium on Sunday, Nov. 19, at 8:30 p. m.

Miss Draper's local appearance will be in benefit of the Polish relief fund of the Commission for Polish Relief, which which Mrs. Charlotte Kellogg of Carmel Highlands is now actively associated in New York City.

Sponsors announced this week include Noel Sullivan, Mrs. Robinson Jeffers, Mrs. F. A. Ingals, Judge Mary Barthelme, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dougherty, Mrs. Caroline Pickett, Jean Kellogg and Mrs. Valentine Mott Porter.
